NMSU employees have 18 calendar days from the date the preliminary designation is issued to the employee to return this Certification of Health Care Provider form to Benefit Services (unless it is not feasible despite the employee's diligent, good faith efforts). If the completed Certification of Health Care Provider form is not received within the 18-day period, or if request to extend or cancel the deadline is not received by NMSU Benefit Services by deadline, the request for Family Medical Leave may be denied and the related absences may not be FMLA protected. The FMLA allows an employer to require that the employee submit a timely, complete, and sufficient medical certification to support a request for FMLA leave due to the serious health condition of the employee. For FMLA purposes, a "serious health condition" means an illness, injury, impairment, or physical or mental condition that involves inpatient care or continuing treatment by a health care provider. For more information about the definitions of a serious health condition under the FMLA, see the chart on page 4.

You may, but are not required to, provide other appropriate medical facts including symptoms, diagnosis, or any regimen of continuing treatment such as the use of specialized equipment. Please note that some state or local laws may not allow disclosure of private medical information about the patient's serious health condition, such as providing the diagnosis and/or course of treatment.
